Door service guide

We provide fast service and repair on every type of door. Tell us what you need in the form or give us a call, and we will book a time.

What a standard service includes

- Check of springs and cables
- Lubrication of moving parts
- Check of motor and controls
- Test of safety functions
- Adjustment where needed

Regular servicing extends the life of the door and prevents bigger damage.

How often should a door be serviced?

Private garage door	A service is recommended every 1–2 years.
Industrial door	At least once a year, and more often with heavy use.

The more a door is used, the more often it should be checked.

Inspection or troubleshooting

We look at the door and find the cause of the problem, either on site or together with you over the phone.

A clear price estimate

Before any work starts, you get a clear price estimate. The price depends on the door type, the scope of the job and any parts that need replacing.

Door won't open or close?

Check these first:

- That the power is on
- That the remote control has a battery
- That nothing is physically blocking the door

If that does not help, get in touch. Do not force the door, it can cause bigger damage.

Service agreements for homes and businesses

With a service agreement the door is checked regularly. That means less risk of downtime and more predictable costs.

What does a service or repair cost?

The price depends on the type of door, the scope of the work and any parts that need replacing. After an inspection or troubleshooting you get a clear price estimate before we start.
